Ned Gill joined Iscoed Chambers as a tenant in 2005 after successfully completing his pupillage.

He is developing his practice to include family, crime and civil law.

Ned regularly appears in both public and private law children matters. He has appeared for Local Authority in Public Interest Immunity cases in the Crown Court. He also appears in the County Court on divorce and ancillary relief cases.

Ned appears at the Crown and Magistrates Courts for both defence and prosecution. He is a grade 2 prosecutor for the CPS. Ned is building up a good following from defence solicitors and is happy to consider instructions throughout Wales.

He also has a busy civil practice with a focus on Personal Injury and Housing cases. Ned is happy to accept instructions on a Conditional Fee basis.
