Stewart Sandbrook-Hughes obtained a BSc (Hons) from University of Wales, Aberystwyth in Economics and Accountancy followed by a Diploma in Law from City University, London.

He has a strong Family Law practice specialising in High Value Divorce proceedings. His accounting background gives him an excellent understanding of the issues of this complex and ever changing area of the law. He also acts in child care cases in both public and private law cases. He has acted for the Local authority and CAFCASS.

Stewart also practises in civil law including personal injury, planning, licensing and other commercial disputes. He accepts instructions under conditional fee agreements.

Stewart was appointed by the Welsh Assembly Government as the Legal Chairman of The Adjudication Panel for Wales and sits as an Adjudicator for the National Parking Adjudication Service.

He is a member of both the Family Bar Association and the Association of Personal Injury Lawyers.
